

During my visit to DTU I spent some time at the DTU Skylab, a living lab for innovation and entrepreneurship. It reminded me a lot of our own endeavors at TUM when it comes to fostering the entrepreneurial spirit of students and researchers. This is how it's supposed to be: Supporting our entrepreneurs to speed up the transfer of their ideas and research results into innovative technologies, products, and services. Both partner universities, TUM and DTU, are driven by the same vision and passion. A warm thank you to DTU Skylab Managing Director Mikkel Sørensen for showing me around!
